

Iver Skaar fell victim to what may have been a fatal accident, last Thursday. While Mr. Skaar and his engineer were fixing some breakdown back of the cylinder of the separator they did not carefully replace the board which covers the cylinder when they got through. Mr. Skaar a short while afterward, again returned to the top of the separator and being unaware of unsafeness of the board he fell through and coming in contact with the cylinder had one leg smashed below the knee and the other at the heel. Dr. McDonald, of Courtney, was summoned. He amputated both legs. Mr. Skaar is now getting along as well as his injury will permit, and we sincerely hope he will rapidly recover. They were threshing on the Silas Miller farm.
