

Joel Jameson had the misfortune to fall from a ladder one day last week and in trying to save himself as he fell stuck his arm through a glass door and very badly cut up his arm, necessitating his being laid up from work for some time. Joe is glad that it was his arm instead of his life. The ladder he was on rested on a slippery floor and slipped from under.