

Carl Beck Dead.

After a sickness of two weeks during which time he fought valiantly for his life, Carl Beck, the trusted and popular grocery clerk employed by John Syverson, passed away at 11:30 Monday morning. Carl was taken sick with a bad cold about two weeks ago last Saturday. He did not consult a doctor at first and the cold turned into pneumonia and later into typhoid-pneumonia. For several days hope was entertained that he might pull through but it was a vain hope and he died as stated above. He was only twenty-one years old and was married about three years ago. He leaves a wife and two small children to battle along life without the sustaining support of husband and father. A short service was held at the house Tuesday afternoon, Rev. J. M. Jensen officiating. The remains were then taken to Jessie and on Wednesday the funeral was held, the remains being interred in the cemetery near that place. The Syverson store was closed on Tuesday afternoon out of respect to the deceased and a delegation from the store attended the funeral at Jessie. The sorrowing wife and the little fatherless children certainly have the sympathy of many friends in this hour of dark bereavement.
