

Miss Hallberg, who was operated upon for appendicitis at Valley City a few days ago, died last Friday. Her case was considered critical right from the start and the doctors said that she could not recover, but she held on to life for a few days after the operation which led her friends to think that perhaps she might recover. Her home was in Minnesota and we presume her remains were taken home for burial.