

One of the little 'win girls of Western Houghton died last Wednesday night from an attack of smallpox. It was about three months old. The remains were interred in the Cooperstown cemetery last Thursday. Mr. Houghton seems to be having more than his share of trouble these days.