Editor Rearick is the proud papa of a nice boy born to his fold on Sunday, Sept. 10, and together with his roast on charivari proceedings has come to realize that getting married is no joke. Right you are, brother, we agree with you altho you can claim title to a longer period of the real life than we can. While we both agree that it is no joke, yet we can not say but that it is a very satisfactory reality, too divine in its every aspect to be made a farce of by the few who still cling to the time worn and very often disrespectful method of creating a perfect pow wow upon the event of a man taking unto himself a wife. Altho the custom has never troubled us in any way, yet, we believe the propriety of it is a matter of past recognition and it should be done away with.
