Drowned

The sad news of two deaths drowning, reached here seeday afternoon.

The details as near as we are ie to learn at this time are: Two men named Jacobson d Dickinson, were working at ell-digging in the vicinity of akota. Their homes were on side of the Shevenne river the story is told thus: acobson decided to remove wife and some of his effects to neighborhood in which be working, and had sent Dickm home to attend to the mov-On Monday, Dickinson rted with a wagonload of artiand Mrs. Jacobson followed abuggy. The road led to sing at the river where teams been accustomed to fording the recent rains have awollen stream so much that the s and vehicles were carried stream by the strong curt and the occupants of the were drowned. The body the woman was dragged are by the horse she was drivand the lines were still held aly in the cold hand, which as great presence of mind on a part of the woman during a dying moments. At this ating, the man's body has not a found. The horses escapwithout any apparent injury.