

A crew of carpenters is at work on the Acme elevator, tearing down the upper half of the building, and will rebuild it to a greater height thereby increasing its capacity. The cribbing has heretofore extended only part of the way up, which made the upper part, which was only studded and boarded, rather unsafe.

STRAYED