

ure.

Messrs H. S. Thompson and Ade Thompson were up from Cooperstown, Sunday, and it happened just in time too, for the band was ready to play and had no clarinet artist. He took up the idle instrument and took his old place in the band and things seemed as in days of yore about three months ago. Of course, old Ade took in the music and came out with the usual verdict.

A party composed of H. J. Maurer