

Hanson Brothers have installed a new music box in their pool room, and it is quite a nice sounding instrument. It is a "Regina" upright and the mechanism is something wonderful. A nickle is dropped in the side and the wheels immediately begin to revolve. A gripper is lowered at the end of a cord and the music sheet is drawn slowly to place. The sheet then begins to revolve and the piece is played very nicely, then the gripper comes in play and lowers the sheet to its place in the bottom of the cabinet. The next nickle gets you a new piece. The instrument was purchased from Stone's Music House at Fargo.
