

The famous character, O'Brien, alias, J. L. Jackson, who went to the county jail last November, to serve a term of six months for making a threat of arson, was released from custody on Tuesday, May 16th, that being the date that his time expired. He was informed that it would be a good plan for him to remain scarce around these parts, and when last heard from he was in Frankfort, Ill. It is reported that he sold fifteen bottles of booze before he took his departure, but this report has not been confirmed.