

On Saturday last, the TIMES learned that John Thoreson had finally been located. He returned from Canada last week, which allays all anxiety on the part of his friends concerning his safety. He says that the country is booming where he was and that the crops in the Northwest Territory are fine. We are all glad to see Mr. Thoreson back again and are glad that the fears for his safety were unfounded.