

Girl Badly Burned

Last Friday, at the home of Mrs. Carrie Thune south of town, occurred an accident of which her daughter Caroline, aged thirteen years, was the victim. Some smaller children were playing with the kerosene can, it is said, and in some way overturned it, spilling the oil out upon the floor. Caroline then set fire to the oil to burn it from the floor, but stood too close to the blaze, and the result was that her clothing took fire. Before she could release herself from her garments she was badly burned from below her knees to her back. Medical aid was summoned as soon as possible and the unfortunate girl was made to rest quite easily. At this writing we are sorry to state that she is suffering from dropsy which has taken effect thruout her entire body, said to have resulted froms the burns and her case is now considered quite serious. It is hoped however, that her sufferings may soon be abated and that she will recover from her terrible misfortune.
