

The stork has paid a visit to the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Brodsbaug and left an eleven-pound girl. Ole goes about his carpenter work with renewed vigor, climbs scaffolds easier and despite the fact that the band has had no rehearsals for a long period Ole plays his cornet and directs with the same becoming grace. The mother and babe are getting along fine.

In a letter from C. I. Kroger