

OLD MISER DEAD.

Died With Over $8,500 in His Overalls— Had Money in McHenry Bank.

Carrington, July 5.—In the overalls pocket of Frederick Bauer, the eccentric Foster county bachelor who died last week, was found a check for $7,900 dated last November, a certificate of deposit for $575 and $100 in cash.

The check was not found by the undertaker until the old clothes of the dead man were about to be thrown on fire. Bauer has been noted for years as a man who would not accept a check in payment for stock or grain and how it came that he carried the check given him last November by the Great Northern Townsite company for the land that constitutes the townsite of Juanita (in Dewey township) is a mystery. The check had never been endorsed or presented for payment. In addition to the above assets, it is said Bauer has a meat jar full of gold coin in storage vaults of one of the McHenry banks. When the money was placed there for keeping it is claimed that Bauer insisted that the identical pieces of money were to be returned to him upon request. The jar contained several hundred dollars.

Bauer was one of the most eccentric men who ever lived in the county.

Illustrated Lecture.

An instructive and entertaining illustrated lecture will be given at the Trinity church in Binford, Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock, July 16th, by Rev. O. J. Flagstad of St. Paul. Do you wish to see the beautiful pictures by the great masters portraying the life of Christ? Then come to this lecture. Do you wish to see the hills and valleys and fjords and mountains of Norway again? Then come! You will know some of these places. Here your fathers and mothers spent their childhood days—or, perchance, you yourself has been there. There will be some of the old and famous castles and churches in Sweden. Several beautiful illustrated songs. Admission: Adults 25c, children 15c.
