

Joe. Buchheit received a dispatch Saturday announcing the death of his youngest brother, F. H., at a hospital in Appleton, Wisconsin, early that morning. Deceased was a travelling salesman, selling city street supplies and about ten days prior to his death was stricken with apoplexy. He was taken to the hospital for treatment but to no avail. Mr. Buchheit will be remembered by many Griggs county residents, having been associated with his brother, Jos., in the mercantile business at Cooperstown in 1884.
