

Albert F. Astwold a medical student from Buffalo, N. Y., arrived here last Thursday to rusticate in the North Dakota atmosphere for a couple of weeks and to regale on some of our health giving and bracing ozone. He is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. August Evers with whom he became acquainted on their recent visit. He informs the Times that he has a desire to go out threshing for a few days to familiarize himself with the features of that sort of employment and he believes when he is ready to return home to enter upon his studies at the medical school he will have some profitable remembrances of his sojourn in the world's famous bread basket.
