

The Binford Cornet Band is to meet next Friday to decide whether it shall re-organize and get in new members, or disband. At any event there will be election of officers and an executive committee will be appointed to look after the band property.