

The Pioneer meat market is about the busiest place in seven states these days—and the immediate future doesn't promise any let up in the strenuousness of the force's existence either. They are supplying a big bunch of threshing rigs with meat this fall, and the work of doing this is no small item, at that. It keeps Fred busy buying stock and assist in the killing, while Jack is just swamped at the block.