

The Christmas tree and exercises at the Lutheran church last Sunday night was a very enjoyable affair. Recitations and songs were well rendered by the children, and the few selections by the choir were just beautiful. The committee in charge of the program are deserving of credit for the able manner in which everything was arranged. The church and class room had both been filled with seats to their utmost and standing room was at a premium. With a few fitting remarks, Rev. Jenson the entertainment came to a close. Everybody was satisfied.
