

Agent West tells us that the railroad people will put in coal docks and, Lord Sakes, a turntable at this point some time in the future, but when he did not say. Owing to the fact that he was just returning home from Sunday school, however, we feel justified in allowing the report more credence than an ordinary "yoke."