

than to bother him either.

Railroad officials are urging dealers to buy their coal now. Later in the season when it comes time to move the bumper crop which is now promised it will be next to impossible for the railroad companies to obtain cars in which to handle coal. The general public, business men, farmers and residents of our town, would do well to place their orders now so that they can be filled early and thus avoid the rush of the fall work of the railroads. Coal is usually cheaper early in the season than it is later and will save money as well as helping out the railroad companies in handling their business.
