

Binford is agitating a new school house to comprise two rooms. We believe a movement in that direction would be the best thing that could be done for the town at the present time, for the old building is too small to accommodate the large number of pupils who will be of school age in a very few years, and a great many of them will be old enough to enter school by the time the building is ready for occupancy if the building was to start right away. Let us not lose sight of our needs in this line and all go to it with a vim and energy that has always characterized our hustling citizens in other matters that have been such potent factors in building up our town. A new school house is what is needed, so let it be a new school house until we get it.
