

The Cantata given by the pupils of the Binford school on Christmas Eve was quite a success, showing the earnestness of the teachers in training their pupils. The stage was beautifully decorated with evergreen and snow and the snowfall during the entertainment was very appropriate and the way the small boys threw snowballs was not unlike the average school-boy. The girls were artistically dressed in white with silver stars with the exception of the holly girl who was becomingly arrayed in red and carried sprays of holly. The hall was crowded and each act was heartily applauded. At the end of the entertainment, Santa appeared and distributed a large number of presents.
