

friends. The editor was the recipient of a nice little bag of black walnuts, for which we are truly grateful as it has been many years since we had even seen any of them, and they tasted delicious. Next time Charley goes to Michigan he will be remembered good and strong—until he gets back, anyway.