

Frank Hall returned Monday from Fargo, where he went to have his burns treated. Frank was quite badly burned here recently by a gasoline explosion but we are pleased to state that he is getting along nicely now and there are only a few marks left to disfigure his face and these will all disappear. Frank is lucky and his friends are glad it is no worse. He departed from here again yesterday, he having completed his services at the drug store, and he now goes to seek a situation elsewhere. Frank has many friends in Binford who regret seeing him depart.
