

Ole Hanson of Ottofy, was in town Saturday, and when he started for home that night and got out about two miles, one of his horses got down in the snow and died while trying to free itself. It is believed the animal ruptured a blood vessel.