

Harry Knaus received this week a letter from his brother Will at Maddock telling of the recovery of some horses that were stolen three years ago. This spring a gang of horse thieves were captured in that region and when Will Knaus visited them in jail they confessed having stolen his horses and told where they were. There were four horses stolen but one had been drowned crossing the river. With the three recovered was a pair of two year old colts born after the horses were stolen. One of these is a valuable animal. Mr. Knauss is naturally very happy over the recovery of his property, even tho it comes after so long a time.—Tolna Tribune.
