McHenry will organize a commercial club tonight. A general invitation has been extended to the members of the Binford and Cooperstown organizations to assist them in the organization. A royal reception will be tendered the guests by the good people of McHenry, and we will be pleased to accept the invitation if it is possible so to do, but from present indications with a quantity of snow in the railway cuts and poor prospects for a train, it is doubtful whether those honored with invitations can attend. However, we wish the new organization the best of success in its undertakings.
