

land is contemplating putting in a barber shop in one of the new Great Northern towns.—Hannaford Enterprise.

Fred W. Medbury, the able county judge of Mountrial county, and Miss Edna Fladcland of Ross, were quietly married at the home of the bride's parents in the latter city and are now enjoying their honeymoon. Both young people are well known and scores of friends will extend congratulations.

George Lockett came down early Saturday morning with one of those "smiles that won't come off" and stepped behind the cigar counter and began passing out the "Havanas," and being asked the cause of all the commotion said that he had a full set of drummers now—one for the base drum and one for the snare, and as soon as he can get them trained will "set back and take it easy." The new "drummer" arrived Friday evening and is a promising young man and we trust that he will grow to noble manhood and fill the sunset of his parents life with comfort and happiness such as can only come from a dutiful child.—Winbledon News.
