

any great roar.

L. P. Karson and wife left Monday for Whitehall, Wisconsin, where they were summoned to attend the funeral of Mr. Larson's father, who died in Christiania, Norway, about a month ago. They were met in Minneapolis by Mr. Larson's brother, who informed them that the body of the deceased had not been shipped from the old country yet, and would not be until the last of the month. Mr. and Mrs. Larson returned home yesterday.

The labor situation throughout the