

Chris Olson, formerly a well-known cook in Binford, died April 21, in a hospital in Seattle, Washington, from a complication of liver complaint and other diseases. He left here several years ago and was cooking in a lumber camp up to the time he was taken sick. He was 42 years of age. The remains were brought to McVille and from there were taken to the home of his half-brother, Iver Clausen. The funeral was held yesterday from the Norway church, Rev. Mjaanes officiating.
