Mrs. W. F. Goodwall was hostess last Thursday morning when she entertained at her home in honor of Miss Alma Bruns, an autumn bride, at an 8 o'clock breakfast. A pretty color scheme of green and white was carried out in the dining room, with sprays of goldenrod arranged on the table. Little hand painted cupids marked the place for each guest, plates being laid for twelve. The time was spent in social chat and music, and when a knock was heard at the door, Miss Bruns was requested to open it and found a shower of boxes tied to a long string. Upon opening these she found them to contain excellent pieces of silver. Then each guest was asked to write a recipe into the Binford cook book which was presented to the guest of honor. Mrs. Goodwall was assisted by the Misses Hazel Maurer and Minnie Drummond. The guests were Mesdames J. D. Reid, Frank Bowe, Aug. Evers, F. G. Lewis, C. F. Heinson, J. J. Herlick, Ed Savre, O. G. Arneson, F. C. Boeckman, C. E. Peterson and Miss Alma Bruns.
