

KINDLY ACT FOR A LONE WOMAN

Her Neighbors Called With Many Teams and Seeded in One Day.

A farm of 120 acres, belonging to Mrs. Leonard Arnold, near Cooperstown, whose husband has been taken to the Jamestown asylum, was plowed, dragged, harrowed and sown in one day by her neighbors a few days ago.

Mrs. Arnold, whose husband is insane, has been worrying a good deal lately over the question how she would get the crop in on the farm. On the very day that she seemed most disheartened of all, she looked out of the window and lo and behold, there was a string of teams about half a mile long. In the procession were twenty-eight four-horse teams and drags, harrows, plows galore. Mrs. Arnold had never seen so many teams before at one time, and she could not understand what it was all about.

It did not take the neighbors long, however, to show Mrs. Arnold what they intended to do. They began to hitch their horses onto the plows and started off into the field. Just as fast as enough furrows were plowed to make a place for a harrow, the latter machine was put into operation, and before sundown that evening Mrs. Arnold's entire farm was in.
