

Swedes vs Norskies.

Undaunted by the defeat at the hands of the All-Nations, the Swedes came back and slipped one over on their enemies, the Norskies, at the bowling contest last Thursday evening. Most anything would be better than to take a beating from the detestable Swedes—but they just had to take it, and we were pleased to administer the dose. A sympathetic disposition prevents us from adding to their humiliation, and besides we don't care to stir up any strife, so we'll refrain from printing the entire score, except that we won by 44 pins.