

interesting one.

An important move in the improvement of the school grounds was made this week when 150 box elders and 50 northern poplars were planted. This action on the part of the board is one that will win for them the everlasting gratitude of the citizens of Binford. Nothing tends so much towards improving the looks of a place as does trees, and if no bad luck results in the growing of them, Binford can boast of as beautiful school grounds as any in the state in a few years. The Times is certainly pleased to make note of this excellent improvement.
