

School Notes.

The monthly examinations are being held this week.

Ida Goplin was absent from school last Thursday on account of illness.

Bertha Johnson was a visitor on Wednesday afternoon.

One hundred years ago today, Jan 7, Charles Dickens, the great novelist, was born. We pause for a few minutes from our contemplation of the knotty points of Arithmetic and Algebra, to do honor to the author of the 'Christmas Carol'.

Many thanks to Mr. Retzlaff for the use of his phonograph for the Penmanship class on Friday.

The Knowledge Seeker's Literary Society also enjoyed a musical half hour at the usual meeting on Friday P. M.

Miss Lowe is teaching penmanship to the pupils of Room II and III. Great interest is manifest and encouraging progress has been made by a number already.

Agnes Knapp and Hazel Maurer are toothache sufferers this week. They have our heartfelt sympathy.
