

School Notes.

Examinations are in order this week.

Mrs. D. A. Goplin called on the Primary room Friday P. M.

Room II now boasts of a library of its own. Hitherto the children have used the libraries of Room I and III.

The third grade has been studying "The Voice of Spring" by Felicia D. Hemans.

The pupils of Room II have seen nineteen spring birds, thirteen plants and fifteen animals and insects during this spring.

We are glad to know that Lilly Ols-gard has nearly recovered from an attack of pneumonia.

A short time was given Tuesday to the creation of some remarkable work of art called "May Baskets." The custom of hanging May baskets is a pretty one and deserves encouragement.

We are glad to have Miss Lowe with us once more after an absence of several days last week caused by the death of her little nephew at Bowbells. Mrs. Truscott very ably filled Miss Lowe's place during the absence of the latter.

A letter from Miss Zella Metcalf bears the pleasant news that she expects to stop in Binford on the way home from her school in Pullman, Washington.

The boys of Room II very kindly brought their teacher a bundle of switches Tuesday. Not all children are so considerate.

O, 'tis May! Yes it is, altho' it may seem more like March. This week closes the eight month of school.

Teachers, pupils and townspeople are deeply interested in the new trees which the school board has set out around the school yard. May the North Dakota winds be kind, that they may grow and never die.
