

F. D. Cannon has been laid up this week and for a part of the time has been obliged to remain in bed, owing to a sprained knee which he sustained by his motor cycle falling on him. The accident happened on the Herman Lucht farm where he was employed plastering Mr. Lucht's new house. He was taking the motor cycle onto the porch and just as he reached the top he made a misstep, falling to the ground with the motor cycle on top of him. The thing weighs about 200 pounds. He was brought to town in Krogfoss' auto to treat the injured member and at present is just able to navigate. Fred is surely receiving more than enough misfortune in this year of 1913.
