

Following relatives.

Roy Gratias quit cold after twelve minutes of wrestling with Jack Connelly at Saskatoon, Sask. last Tuesday evening. A purse of $300 with a side bet of $100 was offered on the match. Gratias cried like a baby when he quit, claiming that his arm was hurt. Upwards of $2,000 was wagered. Referee McMillan declared all bets off, as Gratias would not wrestle unless he had his own referee. About 1,000 spectators were present.