

Miss Caroline Hagberg, who has been the faithful and efficient assistant in the local post office for the past four years, has resigned her position and expects to leave in a few weeks for Minneapolis where she plans to attend a commercial college this winter. Miss Hagberg will be missed by many but they will join with The Times in wishing her success in her new venture.

Minnesota railroads running into