

Mrs. M. A. Hagle went to Grand Forks Monday to see her son, Henry, who is being treated at the University laboratory for a mad dog bite. The boy has shown no signs of hydrophobia as yet and his many friends hope that he may escape that.