Sam S. Haislet has leased his paper, the Lankin Reporter, to S. G. Iverson, and moved to Grand Forks where he has been offered a good position as editor of the Grand Forks Observer. That he will make good goes without saying. Sam is a master in every department of the newspaper business. As a mechanic in the "back room" he is a veritable wonder and his editorial style is admirably alive and entertaining. Under his guidance the Observer will be one of the brightest papers in the state.
