E. M. Jackson and family departed Tuesday for Valley City, where they will make their future home. This change of residence places is made so Mr. Jackson can cover his territory as auditor for the Welles Lumber company from a more central point, and, also in that way, can spend more time with his family. The Jacksons are an estimable family. They are prominent in the social and lodge circles of Binford, and their removal will be a distinct loss and causes much regret. Valley City will be a better little city by their residence there.
