

E. M. Jackson was here Monday, on his regular trip of auditing the books of the L. R. Welles Lumber company. Mr. Jackson has resigned his position with that company and will leave the last of the month for Lake City, Minnesota, where he will take charge of a yard that he and a company of others have acquired. Although Mr. Jackson has been residing at Valley City for the past year, we feel that he has been our own Jack just the same, and the announcement of his departure will cause profound regret in Binford. Nothing too good can be said of him and his family. They came to Binford 15 years ago and grew up with the town, and much of the credit for the progress of Binford can be given to Mr. Jackson. The Times wishes them abundant success and happiness in their new home.
