

Mrs. Randolph Knutson was quite badly scalded in the face, while at Red Willow lake on the fourth. She was preparing a lunch, and while leaning over the fire the cover on the coffee pot was forced open by the steam, the hot coffee striking her face.