

ection.

The case of the post office department against J. W. Lesselyoung, president of the Universal Stock Cabinet Co, who was arrested at Red Lake Falls, Minnesota, some two months ago for using the mails to defraud, was taken up by the grand jury at St. Paul, and was held for trial in the district court, which convened last week. It will be remembered that Lesselyoung got in his work on a number of farmers in this vicinity some years ago. The post office authorities have subpoenaed in all about forty witnesses and the case will no doubt take up several days of the court's time.

Assessors this year will be instruct-