

Hannaford Enterprise: Gust Lind, who is working the Albin Forsberg farm, was through with his plowing three weeks ago. Since that time he has disced his plowing four times. This year he had a bountiful crop and has his land in shape to get another big crop next year. Those who have done every other thing this fall than plowing are in poor shape for the coming year. They will receive according to their worth, and will reap the yields of a poorly managed farm.
