

State bank.

Young Harry Norstrum was a very sick child last Saturday evening. While the folks were out of the house the little fellow got hold of a bottle of cough medicine and swallowed the entire contents. The medicine was some that had been given him while he had a cold, and was pleasing to the taste. Dr. Truscott was called and administered to the needs of the boy and he was soon over the affects of it.