

BURNED BADLY IN EXPLOSION

Kloten Man Poured Gasoline
on Engine to Warm It—Condition Critical

Arvid Olsen of Kloten, was nearly killed by the explosion of a quantity of gasoline that he had poured onto an engine for the purpose of warming it up before attempting to start it. He had poured one can of gasoline over the engine and before it had fully died out, undertook to throw a second can full of the explosive on. In a moment he was completely enveloped by the flames and only for the fact that help was nearby, would have burned to death. He is now in a Fargo hospital, but with a good chance of recovery.